Statement 5 - Form 990-PF, Part IX-A, Line 1 - Summary of Direct Charitable Activities

Description

In Early February of 2014, we visited the Zuni Community and fully funded a gift into the community for the community's Self Directed Project. Currently, the Zuni are in discussion with various operators in the Las Vegas Community regarding their support to promote desperately needed tourism into the Zuni Community. Silver making is a long tradition within the community. Sales of their products could support many, many families in their Community.

Further discussions will clarify exactly how their marketing will play out. As we gain additional information, this page will reflect added information.

Why does the Inti Raymi Fund want to help?

It is estimated that over 40% of Zuni peoples live below the poverty line in America. There has been a long history of displacement for all native peoples throughout the United States which has had socio and economic consequences that still reverberate today. Inti Raymi Fund visited the Zuni Community in early February 2014 with financial support delivered. These monies were entrusted to a select group of women with the agreement that they would let us know how the funds were going to be distributed. We strive to treat all cultures with dignity and respect and although we envision helping people all over the world, we have to look in our own back yard as well.

Who are the Zuni?

The Zuni are a federally recognized Native American tribe, one of the Pueblo peoples. Most live in the Pueblo of Zuni on the Zuni River, a tributary of the Little Colorado River, in western New Mexico, United States. The Zuni were and are a traditional people who live by irrigated agriculture and raising livestock. Their success as a desert agri-economy is due to careful management and conservation of resources, as well as a complex system of community support. Many contemporary Zuni also rely on the sale of traditional arts and crafts, with a specialization in silver jewelry. Their location is relatively isolated, but they welcome respectful tourists.

Jumma Peoples - Bangladesh's sad and shocking story of a people's wanton destruction at the hands of their government:

Description

who is an indigenous Jumma Person from this remote corner of East Pakistan, set out to research what is happening to the shrinking population of the Jumma Peoples and hopefully, to help them in their struggle to survive. The Jumma Peoples are comprised of 15 tribes of Asian descent who have resided for a millennium in the far eastern province of East Pakistan, now known as Bangladesh. These Peoples consist of the following sub-tribes: Chaka, Marma, Tripura, Tanchangya, Chak, Pankho, Mru, Murung, Bawm, Lushai, Khyang, Gurkha, Assamese, Santal and Khumi. Our research findings were consistent with documentation from the United Nations, Cultural Survival and Amnesty International, and other sources, citing profound human rights violations by the Bangladesh Government and local municipalities controlled by the national government. More specifically, it is the government mandated relocation of the illegally placed settlers who now reside side by side with the Jumma Peoples in their once wholly owned and occupied lands of the Chittagong Hills Tracts that has inflamed the region.

Government sponsored Muslim Religious relocations of Bangladesh Peoples from many other regions into this particular area has put immense political, agricultural, financial, environmental, racial, and economic pressure on the once self-sustaining Jumma Peoples. As the tremendous inflow of non-local, illegal settlers are funded by the government and receive subsidies of rice and other staples, the inequity of this situation inflames tempers in the Jumma community. Their attempts to obtain parity are rejected by the government which, instead, supports the illegal settlers. In the ensuing conflicts, thousands of the Jumma have been massacred, their sacred Buddhist temples have been burned, and the calculated mass rape of women in front of their families has been widely used as a method of inspiring fear and control. Cultural mores demand that such dishonored women be ostracized from their society resulting in huge numbers of women who are disenfranchised from their families and are living on the edges of society. It is a powerful weapon in the destruction of a people and it is calculated to do just that. The aforementioned crimes go largely unpunished as this deliberate destruction of a society is part of the larger government plan which ignores the pleas of the Jumma Peoples for criminal prosecutions for these crimes.

As a result of the continuous stream of government sponsored and/or ignored land grabs, rapes, property destruction and murders; the Jumma People's population has seriously declined. The Inti Raymi Fund was present and supported one of the many recent "pleas for help" protests by hundreds of the local women, which go ignored by the government. (see photos below).The CHT lands have been under military occupancy recently, ostensibly to show government concern for the situation, however, to date, there is no real support for those victims of these horrible genocidal crimes.

After roughly 10 days of research in Dhaka, Chittagong and the Hill Tract Region, the Inti Raymi Fund made the decision to actively promote awareness of this heinous situation and to support the Jumma Peoples through the locally run Moanoghar School in the Rangamati District of CHT.

Description

Sunbula, as described in their own words, is "a Jerusalem-based nonprofit Fair Trade organization that supports Palestinian craft producers - women's groups, artisan cooperatives and disabled people's organizations. By promoting traditional handicrafts locally and internationally, we support economic self-help efforts of those living in difficult conditions in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, and the Palestinian minority inside Israel. Sunbula is Arabic for "spike of wheat," the flower that makes bread. As the name symbolizes, Sunbula helps people provide themselves with the gift of a more dignified life."

Sunbula is a member of the World Fair Trade Organization ("WFTO") committed to upholding Fair Trade Values, creating opportunities for disadvantaged producers, sustaining fair working conditions and wages, empowering women, and preserving traditional crafts and artisan skills. They operate two fair trade stores in Jerusalem and an Online Craft Market (www.sumbula.org) and provide training for craft producers to improve production. More than 2,000 women benefit from this organization; they earn income through sales generated at their stores as well as benefit from their development training. Sunbula also works to preserve and revitalize the cultural heritage of Palestine by documenting disappearing artisan techniques and designs, and teaching them to the younger generation.

Inti Raymi Fund granted Sunbula Contribution is to be used at their discretion for their support of the Palestinian Women. We are very proud to sponsor Sunbula and all its projects and encourage others to support this wonderful organization by shopping their online store. You provide income with respect and dignity to people in dire need of help and receive beautiful, fairly traded hand-made goods.

Recently the Inti Raymi Fund traveled to Russia with the goal of supporting a community which is all but "invisible" to the naked eye :The LGBT. This community has made great strides globally against homophobia and has helped to spread awareness of the ignorant stereotypes imposed upon this discriminated against segment of society. Unfortunately the Russian government, along with Uganda, has moved in opposition to global opinion and open-mindedness.

With the Russian government continuously cracking down on non-heterosexual activity, as evidenced by the social tensions during the Sochi Olympics held in 2014, it appeared very relevant to support this "invisible" and vulnerable community of "people". (yes, I said "people"). in Russia. We researched and visited with the Side by Side (Bok-0-Bok in Russian) International Film Festival team of Russia and found their approach to helping others to be brilliant. Their emotional, psychological and educational support through international film festivals for those feeling discrimination for being "different" is worthy of support. The further criminalization of these people by their governments further shames them and erodes their dignity & self-respect. It would be immensely beneficial if governments took the lead role by example, supporting diversity in all people with equal rights and education.

The Side by Side International Film Festival of Russia provides an emotionally safe environment for an age 18+ crowd of open-minded people to view films on the LGBT community. Various issues within the LGBT: topics like stigma, homophobia, discrimination, hate crimes, and acceptance are addressed sensitively; encouraging understanding and enlightenment in the 30% "straight" crowd which historically attends these wonderful film festivals. We believe it is a powerful way to help mend the misunderstanding and prejudice that undermines the LGBT community.

We recommend that you contact this wonderfully dedicated organization in Russia directly to support their effective film festival projects. The Inti Raymi Fund has personally visited with and researched this fantastic organization which is under continued political pressure. They need your help now more than ever.

Inti Raymi Fund and Bok Bok

The Inti Raymi Fund provided financial support to Side by Side Organization in Russia which provides emotional support to its hidden gay and lesbian community through film production on the topic. Interestingly enough, thirty percent of the attendees are "straight", showing hope of bridging the gap of misunderstanding on the topic.
